BAIS YAAKOV GIRL ABDUCTED

MAYOR READY TO CUT A DEAL

NABLUS, CANAAN 2206 (TTT)—The Jacobson family is very worried about the safe return of their sister Dinah who failed to come home after an outing. Dinah grew up in a very sheltered envi

The Jacobsons moved into the neighborhood a year and a half ago, buying a house at 100 Kesita in suburban Helkasfield.

The Mayor has offered to personally mediate between the kidnapper and the girl's family. ronment; some say she felt boxed in. But the Mayor is optimistic, and stated that "Negotiations are proceeding."

"We call on all parties to calm down, and ask all citizens to join in our pain. The wounds will heal! May this serve as a springboard to increase interfaith dialogue and interaction," said the Mayor.

Dinah's brothers, however, are very skeptical and claim the situation is very circumspect.

PROBLEMS IN HUMAN EMOTIONS

Dear Editor,

I met a girl at a local event, and she's totally captivated by me. I proposed, her family's opposed, but I'm willing to convert. Conversion is a long process, but I'll try a shortcut.

Let's all be one happy family!

ADDS INJURY TO INSULT

Dear Editor,

The dishonorable Mayor is manipulating the municipality to cover up a scandal. This perverted Son of a Donkey should hang his head in shame, rather than celebrate all over town.

With all due respect to our elders, now is the time for us to take action.

CAN'T FIGHT CITY HALL

Dear Editor,

I also have other twin daughters, but Dinah is my one and only "bas yechidah."

While I fully empathize with all the anger and indignation, the reality is that violence begets violence.

I am very concerned about taking rash and reckless actions. We must exercise restraint to prevent a backlash.

Before rushing to retaliate, we must consider: what will the Goyim say?

J.

Dear Editor,

Instead of condemning criminal acts, the current silence is condoning the vicious attack on an innocent girl!

This was no isolated hoodlum act. Hizzoner's remarks add injury to insult. The shameful scheme is being orchestrated by City Hall, and supported with the participation of all the local citizens.

All the fancy talk about love and peace, inter-this and inter-that is just a grand cover up!

Cut the nonsense!

This whole town is corrupt, from the average Joe on the street, all the way to the top. Criminal accomplices and collaborators, they are all guilty by association.

OBITUARY:

Young Mother Dies

Survived by her husband, sister, two sons, nephews and nieces, Mrs. Rachel Jacobs, 36, passed away in childbirth.

A dedicated wife and an irreplaceable Akeres Habyis, Rachel was also a helpful sister, concerned daughter and noble matriarch.

Blessed with graceful charm and a beautiful personality, Rachel empathized with those who felt unattractive and undesired, extending herself to spare others embarrassment. Active in Hachnasas Kallah, she offered nervous brides helpful hints, all in her quiet, modest and discreet manner.

But Rachel also had her private moments when she refused to be pushed around or disturbed. A victim of accursed circumstances. A hidden carrier of teraphy that caused her premature demise, Rachel tried to save others from paganism at grave personal risk.

Rachel liked simple non-exotic plants, mandrakes and jasmine were her favorites. She'd give anything in exchange for flowers.

Having risen to the loftiest heights, Rachel still cares for her children. Rather than retiring to a landmark location, Rachel remains alone in the middle of nowhere, all for the sake of her exiled children. She stands valiantly on the lookout for her children throughout the Diaspora, offering solace in time of need, crying along, feeling the pain, sharing the distress and praying for Redemption.

May Rachel be a Maylitza Yosher interceding for Klal Yisroel in our troubled times, and may her children return safe to their land and borders.

Future design of Rachel's grave
